

Brennan Re-Entry Program Management provides expertise in the development of inmate labor programs to Departments of Corrections and local government agencies throughout the country.

We offer a unique skill-set: more than twenty five years' experience in the development and operation of such programs and a history of demonstrable and measurable results.

Our programs stretch construction and maintenance budgets, provide opportunities for inmates to learn and practice a trade, and reduce recidivism.

We save you money. We build futures.

Brennan Re-entry Program Management works with state and local government agencies to:

- Review the maintenance and construction budget and strategy used to maintain facilities
- Assess existing programs and/or evaluate the feasibility of establishing an inmate labor program
- Evaluate the physical structure of facilities and recommend changes in materials and systems to extend operational life
- Consider the inmate population mix and recommend training programs that marry facility needs with inmate capacity
- Provide expertise on funding channels, grant sources, and opportunities for revenue generation

Our programs benefit everyone:

- Departments of Corrections stretch construction and maintenance budgets and extend the operational life of facilities and systems.
- Inmates receive education, training, and practical experience in maintenance and construction trades, which allows them to build productive lives outside the institution.
- Safety and security within the institution improves when inmates have a goal and the means to achieve it.
- A skill, a trade, a future breaks the cycle of recidivism that ruins lives and forces the correctional system to constantly build and expand.

Brennan Re-Entry Program Management develops programs that unite the interests of the institution, inmates, and the larger community to create a better future for all.

Call 1-800-557-1677 for more information

Jim Brennan
jbrennan@brennansc.com

David Cruseturner
dcruseturner@brennansc.com